3. Citizens’ Requests to Address the Board on Non-Agenda Items

Bill Scott, Chair of COM’s Citizens’ Oversight Committee, commented that the last time he came to a Board meeting it was in the lobby and the track people took up three hours. He commented that it would have been helpful for them to have stayed for the Board Study Session on Measure C that evening. He noted that we will get savings from Measure C but not until the projects are completed. He urged the Board to move forward with the New Academic Center. Mr. Scott commented that our track is important and that the track supporters should come to Board meeting with some money and ideas. He stated that the Building Association will put up $1,000 for COM’s track.

Steve Nolan addressed the slow atrophy of sciences at COM and urged the Board as they push forward in expansion to properly fund the current faculty and staff, laboratory supplies and maintenance of the building already there. He also urged the Board to save the track.

replacement of the Child Development Center. A copy of Ms. Bailey’s statement is attached to the minutes as part of the official record.

Paul de Silva expressed concern over the rumor that the Austin Science Center will be demolished and stated that a decision to reduce space would be irresponsible since detailed workflow analyses have not been done. A copy of his statement is attached to the minutes as part of the official record.

Julie Hanft urged the Board to renovate, not demolish the Austin Science Center, noting that the college should not take actions that will worsen climate change. A copy of her statement is attached to the record as part of the official record.

11. Board Study Session
   a. Community Services Classes Analysis (Nick Chang)
      Vice President Chang reviewed revenue and expense information and enrollment data on our Community Education Services Program (copies attached), noting that emeritus classes are a subset of community services classes. President Harrison explained that our community services program, which is required to be self-sustaining by the state, is losing money and is projected to lose $134,000 this quarter. If classes are not eligible for state funding they are not supportable by unrestricted general funds. Trustee Conti requested a clearer and more detailed breakdown of revenue and expenses for the various types of community services classes.

Public Comment:
Gerald Weisman commented that we appear to be mixed up with regard to categories of classes and that no two people are defining things the same way. He doesn’t hear a sincere effort to overcome the problems. He asked for clarification of the term “self-sustaining” and asked what overhead formula is used.

Cole Posard asked how we could offer the $15 emeritus classes if we’re in a financial crisis. He asked why the emeritus weren’t consulted about the class changes and commented that they were treated like stepchildren. He suggested replacing the overhead committee with an efficiency committee.

Marian Mermel thanked the Board for listening. She stated that community education classes are becoming expensive and that many people can’t afford them. She asked if the Board wants to support the people who can’t afford the classes and commented that either you try to make it work or you don’t.

Joan Brownstein commented that there are many adult programs offered for much more money that our classes cost and suggested that we look at scholarships for those who have hardships. She commented that the college is here for the whole community and asked us not to take money away from the young people.

   b. Committee Chair Reports
      Trustee Treanor reported that fundraising for the Harry Moore Memorial is going well and that it will be ready for unveiling at the December 14 ribbon cutting. She reported that she, Trustee Hayashino, Cathy Summa-Wolfe, Ann Hill, and Melinda Molloy were scheduled to meet on November 19 to plan receptions for Dr. Coon to provide opportunities for him to meet members of the campus community and the community at large.

There was disagreement over how to handle this request (using the submission as a correction to the minutes vs. adding it to the minutes of the current meeting). A request was made for a legal opinion on how to correct the minutes.
